

HEBREWS 1:1-9 - ONLY AN EARTHLY RESURRECTION OR ALSO A HEAVENLY BIRTH?

Goran Šušljic

This Biblical description of Jesus' birth is specifically used as "proof," that only in the context of His birth and resurrection on Earth, and not beforehand, did He have the status of a Son.

Upon a deeper study of this chapter, we can find that it describes a heavenly birth as well as a resurrection on the Earth.

- "God, who at sundry times and in divers manners spake in time past unto the Fathers by the prophets, Hath in these last days spoken unto us by His Son, Whom he hath appointed heir of all things (Psalm 2:8), by Whom also he made the worlds; Who being the brightness of His glory, and the express image of His Person, and upholding all things by the word of His power, when he had by himself purged our sins, sat down on the right hand of the Majesty on high: Being made so much better than the angels, as he hath by inheritance obtained a more excellent name than they. For unto which of the angels said he at any time, Thou art my Son, this day have I begotten (γεννάω gennaó) thee? And again, I will be to Him a Father, and He shall be to Me a Son?" {Hebrews 1:1-5}

The word "begotten" in verse 5 does not mean resurrection, but rather literal birth, and in this case a heavenly birth, before the creation of the Universe. The original Greek word does not allow other alternatives, and does not connote a resurrection:

γεννάω (gennaó): bear, beget, be born, bring forth, conceive, be delivered

The first five verses describe Jesus' life as the literal Son both, before eternity as well as His resurrection. The Spirit of Prophecy clearly explains that these verses refer to Jesus always being the Son, and that He was always known as the Son, all the way from Adam or Abraham, down to modern-day, and not only when He lived on Earth as the Messiah!

- "The Scriptures clearly indicate the relation between God and Christ, and they bring to view as clearly the personality and individuality of each. [Hebrews 1:1-5 quoted.] God is the Father of Christ; Christ is the Son of God. To Christ has been given an exalted position. He has been made equal with the Father. All the counsels of God are opened to His Son." {Ellen White: Testimonies for the church, Vol. 8, p. 268.1-3, 1904}
- "It was the Son of God that gave to our first parents the promise of redemption. It was He who revealed Himself to the patriarchs. Adam, Noah, Abraham, Isaac, Jacob, and Moses understood the gospel." {Ellen White: Patriarchs and Prophets, p. 366.1}

In addition, we read in verse 2 that God the Father created the worlds through Jesus. Was our world created just before His resurrection? Did Jesus create everything through or for His Father? We also read that Jesus purged us from our sins, which describes His work of salvation and His death.

If Jesus had only "played the role" of the Son, then He wouldn't have had to be uplifted, for according to the doctrine of the Trinity, He had a fully divine nature which was merely accompanying the flesh and blood of His human body. The chapter about His nature on Earth, Chapter 38, describes this aspect in more detail.

Having an uplifted position does not automatically mean there will be a resurrection! Jesus received this uplifted position from His Father, but the Father never received His position from the Son! Only the Father is above all and everyone, and as such, only He can give or determine anyone's position.

Jesus was made equal to the Father by the Father, when He was begotten with a Divine nature at His birth in heaven, before the creation of the world. And the expression "He has been made equal" is in the passive tense, not active! Jesus did not beget Himself! Chronologically, the Bible continues the description of Jesus' life with His resurrection:

- "And again, when he bringeth in the first begotten into the world, he saith, And let all the angels of God worship Him. And of the angels he saith, Who maketh His angels spirits, and His ministers a flame of fire. But unto the Son he saith, Thy throne, O God, is for ever and ever: a sceptre of righteousness is the sceptre of thy kingdom. Thou hast loved righteousness, and hated iniquity; therefore God, even thy God, hath anointed thee with the oil of gladness above thy fellows." {Hebrews 1:6-9}

"Again, when he bringeth in" is talking about the resurrection. The Biblical description thus far was speaking only of His first birth in heaven. "Bringeth in again into the world" means that He came out of the Father again, receiving back His Divine nature and omnipresence which He laid aside before He came to Earth! The Father's proclamation that all the angels of God should worship Him meant that Jesus returned to heaven as God in every sense and that the Father as such had accepted His sacrifice.

- "The dedication of the first-born had its origin in the earliest times. God had promised to give the First-born of heaven to save the sinner." {Ellen White: Desire of Ages, p. 51.1}

Unfortunately, the verses which rightly speak about His resurrection in Acts 13:33 and Psalm 2:7 are misapplied to the entire first chapter of Hebrews, not just to verse 6 and on.

But even if the whole chapter were only a description of His resurrection, that wouldn't mean that Jesus was only a Son on Earth, because we still have all the other pieces of evidence that clearly show that He had always been the Son, before His life and resurrection on Earth.

The most recent teachings within the Trinity doctrine say that Jesus “resurrected Himself” from the tomb, which is nonsensical and blasphemous, because it denies His literal death for our sins. We clearly read that the Father Himself personally, both begat and resurrected (i.e. begat again) His Son.

No being can beget itself, not even in a limited sense, except in the New-Age teaching of reincarnation, which in this sense, along with many other heretical teachings, has crept into God’s church.

There is not a single quote by Ellen White which ties the first five verses of Hebrews chapter 1 to the resurrection, but rather as we have already read, she explains that Jesus was the Son in heaven! In the same way, if the description of Jesus’ mission on Romans 1:3 says that He was made of the seed of David, it would be nonsensical to misapply it as “proof” that He was “only” the Son on the Earth!

According to that “logic,” you could say after analyzing the biography of someone’s school years that they hadn’t finished a degree because the text only described them as going to university.
